Why Captivate Bio?

Our unique combination of experience, service, and satisfied customers allows us to offer a high degree of reliability for off-site storage and fulfillment services while keeping costs down for our customers. No matter the challenge, our team can design the best storage and distribution solution to meet your needs.

Flexible warehouse-ready solutions

Is your lab space limited, but your inventory requirements are growing? Don't allow space constraints to hold you back from saving big. Discover Captivate Bio's storage and fulfillment solutions and revolutionize the way you manage your inventory and your budget.

We offer secure and temperature-controlled storage space for your supply overflow. Whether you are a new start-up lab, university, or biotech company looking to store research reagents, finished goods, or skidded products, Captivate Bio can help. And, when you are ready to ship, we offer tailored fulfillment services, including same-day delivery and white-glove services.

Tailored fulfillment and distribution services

With a tailored approach, Captivate Bio offers flexible customer-focused fulfillment solutions. Our services include one-off shipments and bulk shipping of your goods in validated shipping parcels for timely delivery.

For international customers, our services help you reduce the costs and risks of transitioning to the US life science research market. We offer back-end office support, customer relationship management, direct sales, order processing, drop shipping, and distribution services.
